Do you offer scaling?

Does my account scale in a trading balance?

All Funded Trader accounts have a more conservative approach to scaling which rewards consistency and lets you grow your account balance at your own pace.

How it works:

Request your profit share at the end of each trading period, and we will send you 80% of the earnings you have received and keep the balance you had before the payout to increase your trading account size.

Can I trade over the weekend?

You are welcome to hold trades over the weekends on all Accounts including Trader accounts. We also allow weekend trading on Crypto instruments. Please be aware of the risks associated with market gaps when trading pairs that do not stay open during the weekend trading hours like Forex pairs, Indices and Commodities.

As a risk manager it is your job to determine the risks and rewards of holding a position over the weekend, as we do not want to limit a trader's strategy. However, if a gap occurs and causes a violation, it is the trader's responsibility.

Do you copy trades to live funds?

We employ a sophisticated, data-driven approach that sets us apart in the industry. By aggregating data from a diverse pool of traders, we aim to develop proprietary trading systems that can generate consistent returns. This robust data aggregation also enables us to offer valuable insights to private equity firms engaged in real trading.

Our method is designed to mitigate risk by not being overly reliant on a single trader, while simultaneously giving each trader the freedom to implement their own strategies. The more traders we bring on board, the more comprehensive our data sets become, further refining our trading algorithms and giving us more data to build with.

Contrary to popular belief, building a successful trading system is far from simple. It involves years of meticulous data collection, rigorous analysis, and continuous refinement. It's this commitment to innovation and data-driven decision-making that makes truly unique.

How much money do I get from the profit?

For Regular accounts:

The trader is entitled to keep 80% of the profit they generate on the Trader account at the end of each trading period as long as they follow the account Objectives and Rules. Your first pay-out will be eligible after 8 trading days, and you are free to request 80% of your profits at any time after that. The rest of your profit will be eligible after each 14-day period.

For Extended accounts:

The trader is entitled to keep 80% of the profit they generate on the Trader account at the end of each trading period as long as they follow the account Objectives and Rules. Your first pay-out will be eligible after 14 trading days, and you are free to request 80% of your profits at any time after that. The rest of your profit will be eligible after each 14-day period.

What happens if I break the rules on my trading account?

Have you broken, or violated some of the rules? Here's what to do.

You can apply for another evaluation, but you do not bear the financial risk of loss that is modeled in the Trader Account. For more details please see the Trading Objectives and Rules page.

What is the legal relationship between Funding company and the trader?

After the trader completes the Evaluation, they can enter the Trader Agreement with Funding LLC, whereby such trader becomes an independent contractor of Funding LLC. If you would like to receive additional information about such an agreement, please contact us at our websites via Live chat.

Is my account Live or Demo?

What account will I be trading with?

All accounts are simulated to mimic live trading conditions to ensure that you have a legitimate strategy. Once you are a Trader for Funded company, your account is eligible to earn based on your performance. Clients are always entitled to 80% of earnings that are generated on the account once they complete the trading period.

How can I request for my payout?

For Regular accounts:

Simply request a pay-out at your dashboard for any profits generated at the end of your 14-day trading period and we will promptly process your payment. The first payment will be eligible after 8 calendar days (8 days from the first day of the first trade). All other payouts can be submitted on a 14-day basis.
